

A Composer's Insight: Thoughts, Analysis and Commentary on Contemporary Masterpieces for Wind Band; Volume 3—with a foreword by John Corigliano—is the third in a five-volume series on major contemporary composers and their works for wind band. Included in this volume are rare, 'behind-the-notes' perspectives acquired from personal interviews with each composer. An excellent resource for conductor, composer or enthusiast interested in acquiring a richer musical understanding of the composers' training, compositional approach, musical influences and interpretative ideas.

"This excellent series of publications is an outstanding contribution to the knowledge and understanding of contemporary music for wind ensembles. The texts, based on personal interviews with composers, are well researched and accurate, the analyses of selected scores are perceptive and probing, the catalogue of works, bibliography and discography are comprehensive—all beautifully and elegantly produced. The author and publisher have done a profound service to the genre of wind ensemble music. A must for all interested in music for winds."

BERNARD RANDS, Walter Bigelow Research Professor of Music Emeritus, Harvard University
1984 Pulitzer Prize recipient in Music

"Conductors are continually trying to peer into the mind, background and insights of composers. Tim Salzman has been our advocate in this never-ending process. These volumes are essential for any conductor who has made this quest."

H. ROBERT REYNOLDS, Director Emeritus of the University of Michigan Bands
Principal Wind Ensemble Conductor—The University of Southern California

"A rich and compelling contribution to all who care about living, breathing music. Tim Salzman and his colleagues beautifully illuminate the backgrounds, beliefs, and musical intentions of many of today's most important composers. Rarely has there been such a lucid and eloquent representation of so many talented composers' thoughts about themselves, their lives, and their music."

FRANK TICHELI, Composer/Professor of Music, University of Southern California Thornton School of Music

"Musicians the world over, not just wind band aficionados, should be wholly indebted to Timothy Salzman for his imaginative and inspiring series of books. I cannot recall any other branch of music in which composers have seized the opportunity of in-depth discussion of their music, their artistic life and beliefs, and have offered every facet of their art for public consumption. Salzman has developed a brilliant game plan, has assembled a fine team of writers, and the results are three exemplary books on the art of composition which should be in every musician's library."

TIMOTHY REYNISH, Past President of World Association for Symphonic Bands and Ensembles
Former Chairperson, Department of Winds & Percussion, Royal Northern College of Music, Manchester, England

"Tim Salzman and his colleagues have established a "template" for the bibliographic phase of score preparation along with candid insights into the creative process. Through the consolidation of multiple resources, they have created volumes of information that heretofore entailed hundreds of hours of tasking. We are indebted to Professor Salzman for his commitment to the study and performance of the masterworks of the wind band repertoire."

JAMES KEENE, Director of Bands/Professor of Music, University of Illinois

"I feel that this important series of books gives wind ensemble conductors important and candid insights into the minds of contemporary composers for this exciting medium. I am pleased to be a contributor."
